REMINISCENCES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

Gleanings From the Records Left By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

Here is a little item from the Times and Gazette of July 29th, 1876, which showes the extent of the shipping done on Redwood Creek at that time: "There are nine crafts running regularly between Redwood City and other places on our interior waters, five sloops and four schooners. Five others run with considerable regularity, while others come here occasionly. They carry lumber and produce and return here with merchandise and some varieties of lumber."

In the early part of the year 1876 the Supervisors began to seriously plan for the building of a new courthouse, to take the place of the one wrecked by the earthquake some time previously and of which but one story still remained. Plans for a new wooden structure to adjoin the existing building and so located as to permit of the use of both were submitted to the Board at its meeting in August and were approved and bids for the construction of the building called for. This building was designed to cover a ground space 40 by 60 feet and to be two stories in height. Bids for this building were submitted at the meeting in the latter part of the same month from four contractors, the price ranging from $9300 to $11375, but all were rejected. This action of the Supervisors was the cause of a considerable adverse comment at the time.

From the days when the buisness of exporting lumber began to decline as the leading support of the town, Redwood City began to take its place as a leader in the manfacture and export of leather. That the location was entirely suitable to this buisness seems evident from the fact that but a comparatively short time was required to develop the industry to a considerable proportion. As long ago as 1876 there were no less than four tanneries in San Mateo county, the three largest of which were located at Redwood City. The oldest of these was the Smith Tannery, then owned and operated by Joseph Kreig. This was locater in the western part of the town near the head of the creek. At this time that tannery was principally engaged in the manfacture of harness leather and was giving employment to about a dozen men. Next ininportance came the Wentworth Tannery, located in the northern part of town. This establishment had been in operation for about two years, manufacturing chiefly leather for boots and shoes. When run at its full capacity it gave employment to from 12 to 15 men and worked up about 200 hides per week, consuming from 150 to 200 cords of tan bark a year. Rooney & Company were operating the third tannery, their place being locateb in the eastern portion of the town. The product of this firm was confined largely to harness and sole leather and their out put was rather less than either of the other establishments. They were however at this time engaged in enlarging the plant and installing improved machinery. The fourth tanning establishment was located at Colma and was operated by J. J. Brady & Company. This concern confined their operations almost entirely to sheep skins.

Evidently the Trustees of Redwood City were determined to secure a municipal water supyly for the town, or at least to force upon the people the responsibilty for its lack if they should fail in their designs. As soon as the Trustees discovered that their first proposal to submit to a vote of the people the question of issuing bonds for the purpose had been defeated through an error in the publication of the notice they prepared to issue a second call the officials took advantage of the discussions indulged in over their first proposition and made the statement of their plans rather more definite, outlining the scope of the proposed water plant. It was proposed to issue bonds to the amount of $25,000, with which a tract of land sufficient for the purpose was to be purchased and wells were to be bored. It was also provided that machinery operated by steam was to be installed of a capacity sufficient to raise at least 25000 gallons of water per hour into distributing tanks, and mains were to be laid through the town where water was consumed or required for fire protection and hydrants were to be installed. The election under this call was fixed for the 4th of October, 1876. As is usualy the case, although there was an almost unanimous cry for a water supply, there was some little opposition to the issuance of bonds. The election drew out a large per centage of the voters, a total of 161 votes being cast, and resulted in the endorsement of the plan by the people by a vote of 126 infavor of the issuance of the bonds as against 34 in opposition, with one blank ballot.

FREE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT ALHAMBRA THEATRE SATURDAY EVENING.

Local Red Cross Society Invites Public to Attend—Entertainment Will Also be Given.

On Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Redwood Chapter, National Red Cross Society, Dr. Broderick of San Francisco will give an illustrated lecture at the Alhambra on tuberculosis. The doctor, who is a well-known authority on this subject, which is receiving world-wide attention at this time, will give much valuable knowledge on the causes and cures of the dread disease, as well as information of what has already been accomplished in the fight against it. Dr. J. L. Ross, Rev. C. C. Kirtland, Geo. A. Merrill and Albert Mansfield will make brief addresses and several of Redwood's best known vocalists will contribute musical numbers. The Redwood City band will also render several selections.

The lecture is absolutely free and no collection will be asked. The public is urged to attend that all may understand this great peace activity of the Red Cross. Through the medium of the Red Cross Christmas stamp, much has been done in aiding this fight for humanity and it is believed that 1910 will be a banner year for the gay little holiday stickers throughout the United States. These stamps may be procured at Einstein's, at the A. D. Walsh Drug Co. or from any member of the Society. In your holiday buying, remember the Red Cross stamp.

TANFORAN WILL BE SCENE OF GREAT AVIATION MEET

The lease of 700 acres of land near Tanforan to be used in January for a monster international avition meet was signed by the officers of the new Citizens' Aero club of San Francisco and Sebastian Lombardi, lessee.

The officers of the club and the executive committee have received assurances from Israel Ludlow of New York that practically all the birdmen of the world will compete for the prizes at the January meet.

The organization back of the meet made up of San Francisco's most representative financiers, will spare no effort in making the January exhibition one of the largest in the history of aviation.

The aviation committee was reorganized and the officers named as follows: F. E. Scotford, president; A. Christensen, vice president; Lieutenant Paul W. Beck, secretary; S. W. Hoyt, assistant secretary, Chas. T. Crocker, treasurer.

The executive committee includes: H. T. Scott, W. H. Crocker, Chas. de Young, C. W. Hornick, Dent H. Robert, Fred Hogue, R. A. Crothers, William Wasson, H. J. Bartlett, F. W. Dohrmann Jr., E. O. CITY OFFICIAL PAPER

D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

The spirit of pull together is what counts in the development of a community. The town that forges ahead is the one whose people have a good word to say of one another and of the place where they live. Redwood City has the best natural advantages of any locality on the peninsula and if its people will pull together in a united effort to make these advantages known to the world we are bound to attract the attention of investors and build up a large and prosperous community.

HELP THOSE WHO HELP YOU.

With the near approach of the Holiday season and its consequent of gift making, it is not inappropriate that the attention of the people should again be called to the importance, to themselves as well as to the general community, if giving their patronage to the home merchant. There are many reasons why these purchases should be made of the dealer in your own city, and non as far as we can see why they should not.

Alive to the demands of his community, the local merchant makes preparation to supply the holiday needs of the people by whom he is surrounded. He takes care to supply his stock with such articles as he finds the people with whom he daily deals are most apt to demand and their circumstances and conditions require. Thus he is in the best position to place before his patrons, articles suited to their requirements.

Practically without exception he is able to secure such articles as the season demands to as good advantag as is his competitor in other larger places. In most instances the expenses of the merchant of the smaller cities conducts his business under a less expense than his more pretentious competitor, and thus is able to sell the same articles for at least as low a price.

Yet another, and quite as important a consideration, lies in the fact that in giving your patronage to the home merchant you are aiding in enhancing the prosperity of your own community; you are assisting in the upbuilding of the place where you made your home. Whatever tends to the prosperity of the business men of any community must eventually rebound to the benefit of all. With a prosperous merchant community we are enabled to build up local enterprise which ultimately must provide that general employment for the laboring classes without which no locality can prosper. Especially in our own community his this argument force. In every move ment for the upbuilding of the industries of the city, the merchant community has been expected to take the lead, and to the call upon his time and means for the public good he has responded promptly and generously. Certainly for this reason he well deserves the support and aid of the people whose interests he stands ready to serve at all seasons.

Old timers of Redwood who knew the Boyntons, in years ago, and who had the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Boynton during her recent visit early this year, will hear with regret of her death, which occurred at Los Angeles recently, after a week of illness, which terminated in heart failure. Coroner Probes Shooting Affray.

Coroner H. G. Plymire held an inquest over the remains of William H. Fitzgerald, the barber killed by Stephen Mori at Brighton Beach last Monday, yesterday in the town hall at Burlingame. Ther were only three witnesses examined, Fred Lorton, who accompanied the sheriff to the scene of the shooting, Duncan Fitzgerald, the eleven-year-old son of the deceased, and J. Palina. Lorton's evidence was only hearsay and Duncan Fitzgerald was not near enough to the men to give an accurate account of the affair. He testified that he and his father were shooting on the lake near the ocean which is controlled by Mori as a preserve, that he was ordered off the premises by Mori. that the latter was on horseback and rode in the direction of his father. He shortly heard two shots and rushed to his parent and saw two men running away. Palina accompanied Mori to the lake on Monday morning. The latter ordered Fitzgerald off the premises. He became abusive and applied a vile epiteth to Mori and made an effort to get his gun. A scuffle ensued. Fitzgerald made a spring for his rig, which was a few feet away, and securing a shot gun was about to point it at Mori when the latter took aim and killed the barber. Mori then gave himself up to Sheriff Chatham. A further hearing will be held next Wednesday. Mori has secured Martin Stevens of San Francisco and Harry Styles of Sani Mateo to defend him.

Abraham Lincoln's Clemency.

At the Belle Theatre this evening, a series of pictures of more than ordinary historical interest will be presented. Founded upon a historical incident of the Civil War, will be portrayed the scenes incident to one of the tender hearted acts for which the Martyr President was noted. This film has been appropriately styled "Abraham Lincoln's Clemency." The film deals with the pardoning at the last moment of William Scott, a young soldier of the Union army who was sentenced to death by a court martial for sleeping at his post, the result of fatigue after a heavy day's march. The pardon is granted by the President after the receipt of a letter urging the clemency from the mother of the doomed lad and the act was induced by a vision seen by the president, and is delivered by Lincoln personally after the prisoner had been taken out to meet his doom at the hands of his comrads. No more interesting picture than this has ever been attempted in this country. The impersonation of President Lincoln is perfect, and no more fitting climax has ever been seen.

SACRED CANTATA TO BE GIVEN ON DECEMBER 11.

The Redwood City Choral Society will give their annual sacred cantata, Sunday evening, December 11, at the Congregational church. This cantata, "The Angelic Choir," by Carrie B. Jones, is one of the best the choral has worked on, and was selected out of a large number of Christmas cantatas. The collection which will be taken up goes to the church in payment for the use of the church parlors to practice in for the season. The society feels that it deserves the support of the people on this occasion.

Many Men Vouch for Treasurer.

P. P. Chamberlain filed his bond in the sum of $530,000,four times as much as the law requires. The bond is the largest ever presented in the history of the county iand secured in less than six days. Many others, prominent tax payers of the county, desired to go on the bond but it was filed before they had an opportunity to do so. This eagerness on the part of the property holders to become Mr. Chamberlain's sureties demonstrates that the people have confindnce in him and are willing to trust him with the county's money No better evidence of his great popularity could be given than this readiness of the wealthy men of the county to stand sponsor for his administration. It is certainly food for thought as well as a strong evidence of how Mr. Chamberlain is thought of by taxpayers

KEEPING PACE WITH MODERN PROGRESS.

Redwood City Physician Occupies Splendid Apartments.

That Redwood City is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of progress is evidenced by the rapidity with which modern methods are being adopted by its business men. This spirit of improvement is rapidly invading the community and our mercantile and financial institution are fast being remodeled an improved to suit the requirements of modern methods of business. Nor is this spirit of progress confined to the ordinary business pursuits. In fact some of the professional men of the city are taking the lead in the movement for the modernizing of methods and appliances.

One of the recent instances of this spirit worthy of mention is that of Dr. J. L. Ross. For some time Dr. Ross has realized the necessity for more modern accommodations for the practice of his profession and the accommodation of his large clientele of patients. With the determination of the First National Bank to remodel its building Dr. Ross saw his opportunity and was prompt to act. Securing the entire lower floor recently occupied by the Telephone Company, he had the space remodeled and arranged for the purposes of his offices, which are today as complete as could be found in any city and supplied with every modern appliance of importance known to the medical profession, and surrounded by every precaution for thorough sanitation.

Entering from the street through the main office door a visitor is ushered into a comfortably and modernly furnished reception room. Opening from this is the Doctor's private office and consultation room, an apartment of ample size and well lighted and ventilated. This room is fitted with much care for the purposes for which it is designated, having every convenience for consultation and advice.

Directly at the rear of the consultation room is the surgical department. Here has been fitted with every consideration for sanitation, an operating room of the most modern character. Not only is the room fitted with the most complete surgical appliances, but it is finished with the utmost regard for that perfect sanitation so essential in surgical cases. The entire floor is of tile, and the walls to a considerable height are wainscoted with the same material, while the arrangement for light and ventilation are perfect. Opening from the operating room is an emergency ward where temporary accommodations may be given a patient under the care of a trained nurse.

Another entire room is given over to that modern essential of modern surgery, the X-ray machine. Here an instrument of the latest pattern, with its accompanying appliances has been installed.

BLOCKADED

Every Household in Redwood City Should Know How to Resist It.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.
Help the kidneys with their work.
The back will ache no more.
Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.
It's the best proof, for it comes from Redwood City.

Mrs. A. H. Lanfear, Heller and Chestnut streets, Redwood City, Cal., says: "We consider Doan's Kidney Pill an excellent remedy and can give them the strongest recommendation. About three years ago they were first used in our family, when we lived in Buffalo, N. Y. Their use in my case brought prompt and positive relief from pain and lameness in the back and other distressing difficulties due to weak kidneys. To say the least, the results were gratifying. Another person in our household who suffered from backache found Doan's Kidney Pills very effective and has used them off and on since then with good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
